

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

NOTES AND NEWS

THE twenty-first annual meeting of the American Psychological Association was held under the presidency of Professor Thorndike at the Western Reserve University in Cleveland, December 30 to January 1. The attendance was above the average. The program of papers was very full, and included sessions devoted to experimental, comparative, educational, and applied psychology, as well as general psychology. A pleasant innovation was a dinner, shared by seventy of those in attendance, immediately preceding the presidential address on Tuesday evening. The following officers were elected: Professor Howard C. Warren, of Princeton University, President; Professor J. W. Baird, of Clark University, and Professor Madison Bentley, of the University of Illinois, members of the Council to serve three years; and Professor Shepherd Ivory Franz, member of the Council for one year to fill a vacancy. Professor W. V. Bingham, of Dartmouth College, continues as Secretary.

PROFESSOR HENRI BERGSON, of the Collège de France, will lecture at Columbia University during the first three weeks in February. He will deliver six public lectures in French, on the general topic "Spiritualité et Liberté," on February 3, 4, 10, 11, 17, and 18. He will also give six lectures in English, designed primarily for the students and instructors of the department of philosophy at Columbia University, on the afternoons of February 6, 7, 13, 14, 20, and 21. The general subject of these lectures will be "The Method of Philosophy: Outline of a Theory of Knowledge." In addition to his engagements at Columbia, Professor Bergson will lecture at Princeton and at Harvard.

DR. C. E. FERREE, associate professor of experimental psychology at Bryn Mawr College, has been appointed director of the psychological laboratory. A separate building has been granted him by the college to be used exclusively as a graduate laboratory of experimental psychology. This building will be fitted up for research work alone, and will, when finished, consist of eight rooms. One or more optics rooms will be provided, furnished with sky-lights, diffusion sashes, etc., for the control of illumination, and with concrete piers running to the ground to give a vibrationless support for delicate apparatus. The regular services of a mechanician will be available for this laboratory.

PROFESSOR R. J. KELLOGG, of James Millikan University, has begun to issue in periodical form numbers of Studies in Linguistic Psychology. Two numbers have already appeared. The subscription price is $1.25 per volume of four numbers of 64 pages each, and orders may be sent to Messrs. G. E. Stechert and Company, 151 West 25th Street, New York City, or to Professor Kellogg at Decatur, Illinois.

THE following appointments have recently been made in the department of philosophy at Harvard University for the year 1913-14: Professor R. F. Alfred Hoernlé and Hon. Bertrand Russell as lecturers, Professor Hoernlé to give regular courses during the first half year and Mr. Russell during the second half year, and Dr. B. H. G. Fuller as instructor.